

AIB WELCOMES TWO GLOBAL ACADEMICS TO ITS TEAM

Australia's largest MBA provider, Australian Institute of Business (AIB), welcomes two new Heads of Discipline to its globally experienced Academic team.

Associate Professor Krishna Reddy, the new Head of Discipline for Finance, has relocated from New Zealand where he worked in the banking industry and held lecturing positions at Massey University and the University of Waikato. Krishna has also held several board of director positions.

Associate Professor Ros Cameron, the new Head of Discipline for Human Resource Management, has moved from Western Australia where she worked as a Research Fellow at Curtin University. Prior to that, she held lecturing positions at CQ University and Southern Cross University in Queensland. Ros has also taught in several countries including China, Singapore, Hong Kong and Fiji. Prior to joining academia, Ros worked as a senior HR Consultant in Australia, the Middle East and in the Fiji Islands. She is a Fellow of both AHRI and AITD.

They join two other Heads of Discipline who were appointed earlier in the year:

Professor Devinder Grewal is the Head of Discipline for Logistics and Supply Chain Management and has experience across both industry and academia in Ireland, the UK, Sweden and Australia. He is the former Chair Professor at the World Maritime University - a specialist agency of the UN in Sweden -and was a member of the Board of Directors of the Australia Industry Standards.

Associate Professor John Wilkinson joined AIB from the University of South Australia, where he held positions of Program Director and Associate Head – School of Marketing. John is a Fellow of the Australian Marketing Institute and a member of the Global Sales Science Institute.

Joel Abraham, AIB Joint CEO, said, "We welcome our Heads of Discipline from across the globe who are all high-calibre leaders, with extensive academic and industry experience, qualifications and publications."

"Our focus at AIB is on working adults, which is why we have a highly practical approach to learning and deliver our MBA programme online. We believe this strong team of Academic leaders will further enhance our programmes and success of our students," Mr Abraham said.

The Australian Institute of Business is the largest MBA provider in Australia, with fully accredited postgraduate programmes that are globally recognised.
