Australian Institute of Business Attains Tier 1 Global Status, Ranking 5th in Australia and 20th Worldwide

Adelaide, Australia - The Australian Institute of Business (AIB) proudly announces its retention of Tier 1 global status for another consecutive year, as well as ranking 5th in Australia and 20th worldwide in the online MBA category by CEO Magazine. This accomplishment reaffirms AIB's position as a leading provider of business education, particularly as the institution was recognised as having the largest MBA program for domestic students in Australia in 2021, with 1,717 enrolments

CEO Magazine has been showcasing top business schools from around the globe since it first launched in 2008 and this year reached out to business schools across North America, Europe, Australia, New Zealand and BRICS, ranking data from 121 schools offering 239 different programmes in 24 countries.

AIB's CEO, Jo Thomas, highlights the importance of being ranked highly on CEO Magazine's global MBA rankings, according to Jo, "Improving our rankings is fantastic validation not only of our status as a world-class MBA provider but also our commitment to continuous improvement."

AIB's Associate Dean Teaching and Learning, Mulyadi Robin added, 'The CEO Magazine Rankings are an important independent trust indicator for prospective students and employers seeking to recruit top talent. They holistically review MBA programs in terms of their quality, as it considers everything from the student's educational experience through to class sizes, faculty quality, and the support provided to the students and graduate employability.'

As Australia's first private higher education institution approved to confer a full suite of business degrees, including the prestigious PhD, AIB's online MBA program caters to working professionals aspiring to advance their careers. The ranking, based on criteria such as academic reputation, faculty quality, and graduate employability, attests to the high-quality education and support AIB offers its network of over 16,000 students and alumni.

"We are thrilled to have received this recognition from CEO Magazine," said Jo Thomas. "Not only does this accomplishment validate the hard work and dedication of our staff and faculty, but it also gives prospective students a reliable way to cut through the noise and choose the right program for them."

Mulyadi concludes by sharing "we are incredibly proud of this achievement, one all our staff and students should be proud of too – it's gratifying to know that you are not only pursuing a program with worldwide recognition, but also one that is at the very top in terms of quality worldwide."

The Australian Institute of Business is dedicated to providing accessible, high-quality education to students around the world. This latest achievement is further proof of the institution's commitment to excellence in online business education.
